KITCHEN HERBS & VEGETABLES

Variety of products from one sustainable source.

In order to be able to fully control our raw materials and have a fully sustainable farming practice in place Geneza produces the majority of its own raw materials. The farms are now cultivated with drones and electric robots working without emission while they are treated with bacteria and natural manures to be able to minimize the chemicals necessary to be used. The territories are also equipped with an online meteorological station and irrigation radars to optimize the water use in each area.

This specific process aims to bring us a quality kitchen herbs and vegetables which is resistant to most illnesses thanks to the very good soil conditions it is put in, a quality item which doesn't exploit its surrounding.
